JUDGMENT AGAINST WASHING MACHINE MAN

Judgment for the plaintiff for $800 was awarded by Judge Page in Division 2 of circuit court this morning in the suit of M. H. Depue against the Swift 1904 Clothes Washer company and E. R. Crooker, the patentee. The testimony in the case was heard two weeks ago. Depue, who was represented by A. B. Lovan, asked judgment for $800; the return of notes for $700 and $300 expenses, which he alleges represents the debt entries in his ledger in his account with Crooker, from whom he last summer purchased a $1,500 territorial contract permitting him to sell the washing machine and "blue sky." Depue was unable to sell either the washer or territory, he alleges, and in the petition asked judgment to square the account. He is a Springfield carpenter and is one of the many in Springfield who last summer purchased territorial rights.

The contention of Depue that his notes given to secure the patent rights be returned to him is also upheld by the court, but they were not ordered returned for the reason that collection can not be forced.—Springfield Leader.
